And that at another time be offered an amendment to a proposition of Judge vanced for his associates in the Confederate Assembly, as the INTALLIGENCE SURGES, for they voted down his amendments, and while he may have been too extreme in his views, still we suggest that some allowance should be madelor a man who brings "fruit meet for repeatence."

That Judge Woods did repent of his connection with the Confederate government was upon which the Confederate government was built, is a part of the history of our State. Will not the INTALLIGENCE give Judge Woods, credit for the sincerity of his declaration in "discarding and disclaiming the false doctrine of State Severeignty."

During the days of test calba and registration laws Judge Woods applied to the Republican legislature of the State for the passesses of a special act removing his disabilities. In response to this resolution Mr. Woods did address a letter to Fenelon Howes, the delegate from Barbour, and which was read before the Legislature and spread upon its journal. We give the lotter in fall as it appreciate in the House Journal of 1869, pages 57 and SS: TOR TREASURER.

Judge Woods' record in the Secession Convection, the Register comes to Judge Woods' defense with a letter written by him to Major Fenelon Howes, a Union man, at that time a delegate in the Legislature from Barbour county.

Our cotemporary asks, "Will not the INTELLIGENCES give Judge Woods credit for the sincerity of his declaration in discarding and disclaiming the false doctrine of State Sovereignty?" It does not follow that he was sincere, as were many thousands who formally and with some dignity declared their acceptance of the situation or who loyally accepted the results of the war without published profession and for no other reason than that they held such acceptance to be the duty of good clitzens.

Judge Woods' letter shows on the face of it that he groveled and wallowed in the might resume the practice of law. Ho was too abject to be sincere. He debased him self and crawled on his belly before the Legislature, as though he could never have enough of debasenees. He declares that he never did believo in the doctrine of State sovereignty—without which secession was without a pretext, the Confederacy without a corner-stone and the firing on Sumpter the first act of a bloody drama of wanton cruelty to the men, women and children of the North and the South.

wanton cruelty to the men, women and wanton cruelty to the men, women and children of the North and the South.

Judge Woods was carly in the arena as a secsionist. In the Richmond convention he was notable for the fiscreness of his demeanor, the bitterness of his views, the sweeping character of his preceriptive propositions. He did all that he could to make war and to make war a hideous monster in loyal Virginia. If he did not believe in the decrine of State sovereighty and secsion he was playing a part for some secret purpose of his swn.

When the time came to make terms with the men whom he had voted to make felons, whose property he had desired to confiscate, he got down on all fours and crawled before them in humble supplication. The Legislature demanded no such prostration. He was willing to leave his old Confederate associates to find a way out for themselves, while his craven penitence secured him a chance to get on his feet sgain. Other petitions were sent to the Legislature, but none so tearful and pitiable, so lacking in every indication of manbood esthat signed by Samuel Woods. the Legislature, but none so tearful and pitiable, so lacking in every indication of tronomical levels at places as distant as S Petersburg.
"I may here remark that although ! manhood as that signed by Samuel Woods.

Yea, the Intellegence is willing to "let a repenting rebel live." The Intellegence is willing to be friendly with men who took part in the Confederate movement. It is willing to support them for places of public true. It is now supporting two men who served bravely as Colonels in the Confederate army, and there are no men before the public to-day whose success the Intellegence more desires. They are goodclitzens and fit for the places for which they have been named, and that servers in almost all directions. If a pear or any small point on the surface of the or an servers in simest all directions. If a pea or any small point on the surface of the ground could have been observed, it would have been seen to have moved in ellipses, in spirals, in paths like the figure S, and to have gyrated and wriggled in a multitude of the most varied directions. Nor can any reliable information be obtained from the side to which bodies were overthrown or protected, uzless the observer can assure himself that the earthquake scted like a single blow. After an earthquake I have often found a set of small columns, lying on a bed of sand prepared to catch them, pointing in all directions like the arms of a starfish." The INTELLIGENCER is willing to le Judge Woods earn his living in the practice of his profession-not as a judge who joined with three other judges to bolster up the State administration in its unlawful schemes to pile up taxation on a people already tax-ridden. That is the objection to the kind of "repentant rebal" Judge

A PEXICENT PROSCRIPTIONIST. Or. How a Flerce Fire-Enter Kicked th "No Physic, Sir, in Mine!" Dend Confederacy and Begged Pardon A good story comes from a boys' boarding school in "Jarsey." The diet was monoton-ous and constipating, and the learned Prin-cipal decided to introduce some old style "IS HE TO FIND NO PLACE OF REPENTANCE, cipal decided to introduce some old style physic in the apple-sance, and await the happy results. One bright lad, the smartest in school, discovered the secret mine in his sance, and pushing back his plate, shouted to the pedsgogus, "No physic, sir, in mine. My dad told me to use nothin but Dr. Pierce's Pless.nt Purgative Pelle's," and they are a doing their daty like a charm!" They are anti-bilious, and purely vegelable. THOUGH HE SEEES IT CAREFULLY WITH TEARS?" The Intelligences of yesterday in support of its charge that Judge Woods, one of the Damecratic nominees for the Supreme Bench, was once a proscriptionist, has taked up the records of the Secession Convention of 1861, of which Judge Woods was a member, and publishes the following resolution which the journal shows to have been offered by Mr. Woods, of Barbour, on the 18th day of June, 1881:

While reminding the INTELLIGENCER that the Confederate government refused to adopt these proscriptive messures provided by Judga Woode, the Republican Legislature of West Virginia did adopt these proceed by Mr. Maxwell.

But, while Mr. Woods may be too advanced for his associates in the Confederate Assembly, so the INTELLIGENCER SUR single word "imported" was all the recommendation required to effect a sale of an animat. Even now there are many who are influenced to a very considerable degree by the magic word. Yet there is not a eingle reason for the belief that American bred stock is not fully as good, with possibly the exception of a half dozen famous snimals, as any in existence abroad.
As to Jersey cattle this is becoming generally understood, and there is no longer an eigenress to secure at long prices animals from the island unless they have much more to recommend them than the bare fact that they were bred abroad. The effort is, instead, to zecure those animals which have won for themselves a good repuation by doing something of practical value. The butter test has done more than anything else to bring people to their senses in this matter.

In the best breeds there are, it is admitted, se good animals in this country as are to be found. It is not claimed them mendation required to effect a sale mitted, se good uniterals in this country as are to be found. It is not claimed that there are enough of the best class to makinfy the demand; probably there will never be enough of that kind in the world to satisfy enough of that kind in the world to satisfy the demand at what farmers generally wilcall moderate figures. But there are plenty to improve the general stock of the country, and these can be bought at prices so low that they leave no chance of loss.

There is no longer of necessity any speculative element in the purchase of breeding stock of the established boef breeds. The experience of the last fifty years shows conclusively that the purchase of cattle of pure breeding is smong the eafest and most profitable of farming investments. The has been the case when prices have been has been the case when prices have bee high, and when "fashionable" strains of blood, having much booming but litt blood, having much booming but littl practical value, seduced breeders into pay ing high figures for "paper" cattle; ther can, then, be scarcely a chance of loss whe uires of good blood can be bought, as the can now, for prices little higher than the ould bring in the market for beeves.

He Appreciated Poetry. He Appreciated Poetry.

"Is there anybody about this establishment who loves poetry?" he said, as he opened the door and glared around the editorial room with a doutful look.

"Cortainly there is," said the editor, "have you got some?"

"Yes; four peems, all of 'em on spring,"

"Good! That's just what we want. John, sprinkle a little mint succ on these and take 'em down stairs."

"What for?" demanded the poot.

"For the goat, He is the only one about the establishment that loves poetry. But he won' eat spring poetry without mint sauce."
